"AN APPLE A DAY"

Apple day keeps the doctor away. Little Johnny said to his mother, "I've kept this apple for you this morning, but I don't want to have one this afternoon." His mother and father are a little bit older than he is, and they are a little bit sicker than he is. They are a little bit older than he is, and they are a little bit sicker than he is. They are a little bit older than he is, and they are a little bit sicker than he is.

Poultry Project Leader Reports at Annual Meeting

Accredited Flocks

An outstanding feature in Oxford County's poultry project is that everyone of our seventeen flocks that were tested last fall for Pullorum Disease tested one hundred percent free and were accredited.

Furthermore, we have raised the number of accredited flocks from one in 1928, to five in 1929, eight in 1930, ten in 1931, and seventeen in 1932. This year, 9,381 hens were tested and accredited in the county.

In 1928 Oxford County sold 1,800 chicks and hatching eggs. In 1931 she sold 87,338 and turned away orders for 11,000 more. We are making it safe for poultrymen to say, "There is no place like home" when it comes to buying chicks.

Egg records were started with thirty-six poultrymen this year to encourage better flock management and sixty-nine poultrymen have adopted one or more of the seven points on the Grow Good Poultry Project.

Pedigree breeding work has been started with eight poultrymen, six of whom are accredited flock owners this year.

The committee feels that all three of these projects together with a new one, "Increase Your Income With Poultry," should be on our county program for next year. A. L. Sanderson, Poultry Project Leader.

Farm Bureau Federation Offers Prizes for Essay "What Our Hens Have Bought"

The Maine Farm Bureau Federation offers fifty dollars in prizes for the best essays on the subject, "What Our Hens Have Bought". The first prize is $15 in cash, the second $10, the third $5, and the next ten, $2 each. Competition for these prizes is open to residents of Kennebec, York, Cumberland, Oxford, Androscoggin, Sagadahoc, Knox, Lincoln, Waldo, Hancock and Washington Counties. Only one essay will be accepted from one family, and any family keeping hens may submit an essay. The subject must be, "What Our Hens Have Bought". It must be a true story. It is suggested that the story should include what other enterprises are carried on the farm, why hens are kept and how many, what proportion of the farm income hens supply and what comforts and conveniences the hens have contributed.

Judges will be instructed to score essays on the following points: accuracy, clearness and completeness of statements, and general appearance and spelling. Essays must not exceed 500 words in length and all essays from Oxford County must be mailed to the Farm Bureau office on or before Jan. 1, 1933. Right to keep and publish all essays is reserved.

Get Farm Account Now

Free Farm Accounts are available to farmers in Oxford County through County Agent Ridley. The accounts are simple, yet complete and begin on Jan. 1 of each year. Conditions governing the keeping of the book are as follows:

The farmer agrees to:

1. Take an inventory when starting the account and again at the close of the year.

2. Keep a record of expenses and receipts for one year.

3. Loan the account to the Extension Service so that they may take off a summary.

In return the Extension Service will:

1. Furnish the account book free of charge.

2. Check the account for errors in adding before taking off the summary.

3. Furnish a copy of the county summary with a statement showing a comparison of that farm with the average to aid in better organizing the business.

4. Return the book as soon as it has been summarized.

OXFORD COUNTY UNIT

Thanksgiving Service—Miss Wilkins' Birthday Celebrated—Arctic Explorer to Speak at Waterford

Sunday night a good crowd gathered at the North Waterford Church for the All-Ireland Parish Thanksgiving Service. A young people's choir of twenty voices furnished special music, and led the congregation singing under Ralph Knight, star representative clerk, read Washington's representative Proclamation and first Thanksgiving Proclamation and Rev. Thompson E. Ashby of Limerick gave an interesting address on "The character of Washington." The latter half of the program was of hymns, responsive worship service and prayers, built around the readings and prayers, built around the thought of thanking God, morning, noon and night.

Last Friday evening a good crowd gathered at the Wilkins Community House to celebrate the birthday of Miss Wilkins in whose memory the building was erected. A fine program of music and readings was given during the supper hour, together with social evening together. This week brings a big Afro-Brazilian Young People's Social on Friday night at Waterford. At the last social of the kind there were over sixty present. All the young folks of the Parish are invited to come at 7:30 p. m. and enjoy an evening of fun.

On Friday evening, November 2nd, Donald MacMillan, the Arctic explorer, will be at Waterford to show slides of his travels and tell about them. A small charge will be made for the evening's program. Half of the money will go for the welfare work among the Eskimos and the other half to the Parish.

On Friday, Saturday and Sunday of this week a group of students from Yule Divinity School and Hartford Seminary will be in the Parish. They will be accompanied by Prof. Macmillan and will be in the United States in Western Maine to study this type of religious work in rural communities. The main part of the study will be made in the Sebago Regional Parish, but some of the students will probably be with us on Sunday and, we hope, will speak at some of our services.

WATERFORD

Miss Hester McKown spent the week end at her home in North Lovell.

Annual Roll Call—Guests at Venison Dinner.

The annual Circle supper and community entertaining, which is held as nearly as possible on the anniversary of the dedication of the Wilkins Community House, and also the anniversary of the birthday of Miss Williams was celebrated on Friday evening. During the supper hour a short program was carried out, consisting of violin music by Barbara Fillebrown; recitations by Rachel Kivela and Nancy Hamilton; vocal music by Edna Ethel and Merritt Kimball; piano duets by Mrs. Charlotte Fillebrown and Miss Louise Stone and Jean Hubbard; and a few recitations by Mrs. E. L. Bonds and William Collins. Mrs. E. L. Bonds made a few remarks, saying a high tribute to the memory of Miss Williams, whose bequest has made it possible for the community to have this beautiful building. After supper there was a social hour, with dancing by the young folks. Dennis Gardner played the violin for a lively contra dance, which was enjoyed by both old folks and young folks. Dennis Gardner and Charles Fillebrown each brought in a deer one day last week.

Miss Mabel Gage arrived in town on Monday for a few weeks stay at the Gage homestead.

Mrs. Charlotte Fillebrown entertained the following guests at a venison dinner, on Thursday of last week, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Stone, Miss Louise Stone, Mrs. Jane Stone, Mrs. Nancy Jewett and Mrs. Carrie Plummer. The dinner was delicious and a very enjoyable day was spent.

Mrs. R. E. Hubbard, Mary and Roswell Hubbard and Mrs. L. B. Rouns recently spent a few days in Boston and vicinity.

Dr. R. E. Hubbard spent the week end with his family and attended the Circle supper and entertainment.

ANNUAL THANKSGIVING CONCERT

An audience of about three hundred filled the auditorium of the Congregational Church Sunday evening and enjoyed the annual Thanksgiving concert given by talent from the local churches, with the assistance of Norway musicians.

Selections by an orchestra were unusually good, the players were Miss Marion Haskell, violin; Miss Clara Shepard, Mrs. Grace D. Robinson, Miss Dorothy Dean, violins; Walter Stearns, viola; Clarence Huff, trumpet; James Mason, trombone; Delmore Robinson, clarinet; Charles Garcelon, clarinet; Clarence Decoster, bass viol; Mrs. Bernice Wilson, organ.

One chorus number was given by Miss Marion Wheeler, Mrs. Beryl Farnham, Miss Kathryn Greene, soprano; Mrs. Harriett Denison, Mrs. Lulu Merrill, Mrs. Agnes Perkins, alto; Clayton Churchill, Mr. Tolstetter, Donald Kidney, tenors; Robert Smith, Rev. Charles Kinney, Leroy Titus, basses.

Other features were a duet by Mrs. Harriett Denison and Robert T. Smith; vocal solos by Miss Kathryn Greene; violin obligato by Miss Dorothy Dean; by Miss Marion Wheeler with Miss Haskell, violin accompanist, and solo by Arthur Dudley. A male quartet was composed of Morton V. Bolster, Clayton Churchill, R. T. Smith and Leroy Titus. The instrumental soloists were Miss Marion Haskell, violinist, and Clarence H. Huff, trumpeter. Miss Carolyn Farnham read Edgewood's poem, "Thanksgiving." Mrs. Bernice Wilson was organist and director.

A freewill offering of $25.02 was received and used to provide Thanksgiving baskets for the unfortunate.
